Followed by a survey about the document

Main topics include:

1. Data Ethics
2. Environmental Impact
3. Plagiarism & Originality
4. Practice in Studies with Human Participants
5. Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

Sent to the community on 10/09/2025 [read here]

We welcome feedback in short and long forms!

Results from our community-wide survey about the first draft of the document:

Should the Code of Ethics be flexible (i.e. lax, broad guidelines that only state some preferred behaviour in the community) or rigid (i.e. a detail...ions that authors in the community must adhere to)?
18 responses
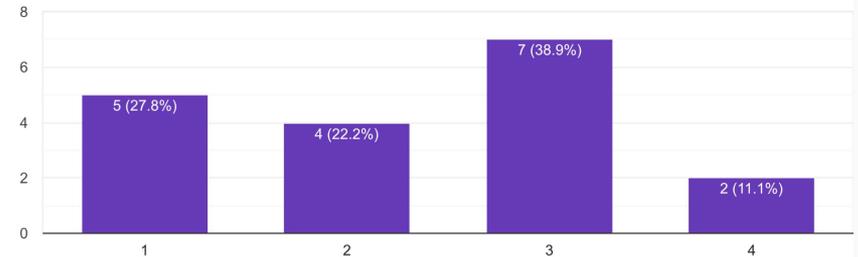

3. Unconference (happening today @5pm):

We have proposed the ISMIR Code of Ethics to be discussed at one of the slots of the Unconference.

Feel free to reach out to us with questions, suggestions, ideas, before the Unconference session!

Financial Support for ISMIR Conferences

- The Board aims to provide a financial subsidy to conference organizers, depending on the financial status of the Society, to help lower registration fees and provide more travel grants (especially for students)

- Formalized conference budget guidance in Call-for-Hosting document: https://ismir.net/ismir/hosting-an-ismir/
    - Conference Organizers try to achieve break-even, taking the subsidy as income
    - Conference Organizers can keep a surplus amount to support local MIR activities (i.e., up to $20K for emerging regions, up to $5K for established regions)
    - Conference Organizers to provide financial support for conference attendance

Open Review Initiative

Motivation and Background

- The Open Science movement: making the entire life cycle of research accessible
- Some neighboring communities (e.g., machine learning) adopted Open Review practices
- ISMIR culture on continuous improvement and innovation

Open Review Initiative Timeline

- 2023.07 - Online discussions, forming a working group with two subgroups
  - Survey subgroup: Zhiyao Duan, Hugo Flores García, Magdalena Fuentes, Anna Huang, Blair Kaneshiro, and Justin Salamon
  - Webinar subgroup: Brian McFee, Oriol Nieto, and Shuqi Dai
- 2023.11 - Conducted an initial survey at ISMIR 2023, received 47 responses
- 2023.11 - Discussions at ISMIR 2023 Society Meeting and Unconference
- 2023.11 - Held a webinar for further discussions
- 2024.03 - Released a revised survey to Music-IR mailing list
- 2024.04 - Closed Survey, received 116 responses: more than 80% respondents preferred some kind of open review
- 2024.07 - ISMIR 2024 SPC adopted practice of "publishing anonymous reviews of accepted papers with both authors and reviewers consent".
- 2025.04 - ISMIR 2025 SPC updated this practice with "opt out open review", requiring consent only from authors.

ISMIR Open Review Survey Key Results (N=116)

- More than 80% of survey takers preferred some kind of open peer review for ISMIR
- 18.1% of survey takers think that ISMIR should not adopt any form of open review.
  - Negative Impact on Submission
  - Impact on Junior Researchers
  - Introducing Bias
  - Implementation Challenges
  - Doubts about Benefits and Appropriateness for MIR

Reflections on Open Review Initiative

The open-review initiative has been quite successful in general

- Launched after thorough discussions
- Practice was updated gradually and based on community feedback

What do you feel about our current open-review practice? What recommendations do you have for future years?

Let's discuss at the Unconference session!

Finally the treasury is not accruing more!

Financial Outlook: Still Excellent!

- ISMIR is an independent society, and has an excellent financial outlook (thanks to the successful financial management of past conferences).

- ISMIR is a non-profit organization (NPO), and so it is critical that it does not accrue significant savings.

- A healthy ISMIR treasury allows the Society to continue funding students, WIMIR grants, TISMIR and other initiatives.

Financial Status: Future Budget Usage

1. Continue making ISMIR accessible: students, WIMIR, outreach to increase diversity, scholarships

2. Support for high-quality scientific papers at TISMIR (open access fees, copy editing)

3. ISMIR organizers, e.g., ISBNs, cover costs to reduce the financial risk, reduce reliance on sponsors
